

CASE STUDY

We get the deal done.

Evallic acquired Wireless P2P Technologies AB

TMT

TRANSACTION ANNOUNCEMENT

Translink CF advised Wireless P2P Technologies AB in the sale to Evallic, a portfolio company of Adelis Equity

Wireless P2P Technologies AB is a Swedish defence-tech company with proprietary technology in SDR platforms and embedded systems

Evallic is home to leading European defence technology companies, dedicated to protecting society through advanced, mission-critical solutions

TRANSACTION HIGHLIGHTS:

Translink Corporate Finance acted as financial and strategic advisor to Wireless P2P Technologies AB in the sale to Evallic, a portfolio company of Adelis Equity.

As one of very few European providers of high-performance SDR and integrated datalink-and-EW capabilities, Wireless P2P Technologies occupies a distinctive position in the European defence technology landscape.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Through the acquisition, Wireless P2P Technologies gains access to Evallic's platform, industrial capabilities, and global defence market reach, while Evallic expands its capabilities into next-generation tactical communications, anti-jam datalinks, and autonomous system connectivity.

DEALMAKERS:

Anton Danielsson, Martin Larsson, Douglas Grunberger

"Joining Evallic marks a pivotal milestone in our journey. We exist to solve the biggest communication challenges in modern electronic warfare, and this partnership gives us the operational strength and industrial foundation to scale our production, expand internationally, and meet the surging demand from defence customers. I am thankful for the work and support from Translink throughout the whole process, and their strategic guidance and market knowledge were key in this successful outcome for us."

Iurii Voitenko, Founder and CEO of Wireless P2P Technologies